He is hoping, at an early date to complete the work at North Carolina, which will legally give him the honorable title of Dr. Britt of which he will be very proud.

We feel fortunate in having Supt. Britt and family with us. The educational prospects are now promising us a very good school year.

It means so much to your child to be able to begin with his class which gives him an equal chance to be an "A" student.

READING GROUP CLOSED

The reading group which has been so successfully conducted this summer closed with last Saturday's meeting. We had a large number of children that showed their interest in the opportunity of reading some good books during their vacation this summer, by being present each week and taking a new book each time. Special plans were made each week to make every visit to our library more attractive and interesting. A talented story-teller was invited to meet with the group as often as possible. At other times the little readers were delighted to tell to the group the new stories they had read from their books. Very often good reading were given by some of our local talented members which were always enjoyed by all. The readers were served refreshments each Saturday after school hour and the book discussions. We feel that much has been accomplished and we hope the teachers this year can readily recognize the improvement in reading as well as other subjects that those summer readers have made. We are very thankful to the Bulloch County Library for furnishing us with such good reading material, we have thoroughly enjoyed every book of it. We are also appreciative to the ladies of our community who so generously contributed their services to our cause in order to make it more pleasant and profitable for us. Again we thank you—The Reading Group.

FARM TO FARM

A few purebred hogs and cattle around the farm makes the farmer take more interest in his livestock, which pays off because the stuff raised is above the average, declares F. C. Rosier. Mr. Rosier has some purebred Duroc hogs, purebred Hereford cattle and purebred Guernsey cattle.

P. W. Clifton has found over several years that he can market considerable feed that would otherwise be wasted by running some beef-blooded steers over the fields, even though he has to buy the steers.

Scuppernons are a source of income if a farmer makes an effort to produce a crop and then markets them, says M. P. Fordham.

Judging from the hay crop near W. W. Mann's home a little plowing and fertilizer adds to the per acre yield.

Dr. Marvin S. Pittman is giving farmers that pass the South Georgia Teachers College pasture a valuable demonstration in the value of a mowing machine in keeping weeds and other obnoxious growth down, so grazing can be helped.

Hogs will reach number one weight on soybeans alone, even though they may not be completely finished, according to a demonstration carried on by Robbie Belcher this year.

PEAR-CANNING TIME

(By ELVIE MAXWELL)

The time for canning pears is now at hand. Homemakers appreciate the pear for its fine flavor, its nutritive value and its excellent canning qualities. The pine-apple and Keiffer are good varieties for canning. Miss Katherine Lanier, food preservation specialist, with the State Home Demonstration Department, sends us the following recipes for saving pears:

Canned Pears

Pear, core, half or quarter pears; drop immediately into a cold salt water bath, made in proportion of 1 tablespoon salt to one quarter of water, to keep them from discoloring. Boil gently in clear water until tender enough to pierce with a fork. Remove pears. Make a syrup, using the water the pears were cooked in, in proportion of 3 parts sugar to 1 part water. Pack fruit in jars, cover with syrup and process 20 minutes in boiling water. These can be used for salads, desserts, or as a breakfast food.

Pear Honey

Run pears through food chopper using coarse blade. To each cup of pear add one cup of sugar. Cook until clear but not pink. If desired, add one No. 2-1-2 can of grated pineapple to three quarts of pears, let come to a boil. Pack in sterilized jars and process 20 minutes in boiling water.

Spiced Pears

To make spiced pears you will need 7 pounds hard pears, 1 pint vinegar, 1-2 lemon rind, 1-4 ounce whole allspice, 3-12 pounds sugar, 1 ounce ginger root, 1-2 ounce whole cloves, and 2 ounces cinnamon stick.

Pare and cut pears in halves or quarters. Remove seed. Make a syrup of vinegar and sugar, put spices in cheese cloth and add to syrup. When the mixture begins to simmer, add the pears and lemon rind and bring to the boiling point. Cool quickly and allow to stand over-night. Next morning drain off the syrup from the pears into a porcelain or enamel vessel, and add sugar, put over the pears, and allow to stand over night. Next, drain and heat the syrup as before; repeat this four or five days then boil the syrup down until it is just enough to cover the fruit. Add the fruit to the hot syrup and boil 30 minutes, pack in jars and process 30 minutes in proportion to hot water bath.

NOTE—The pears may be finished in one day by boiling them in the syrup until the fruit is clear. Remove the fruit and boil down the syrup, add fruit, reheat, and finish as above. The fruit is less rich if done this way.

MRS. LAMB AND MISS ANDERSON HOSTESSES AT SEATED TEA

A delightful social affair of the past week was a seated tea given on Friday afternoon by Mrs. Bartow Lamb and her sister, Miss Catherine Anderson, at their lovely home on Zetterow Avenue honoring Miss Evelyn Mathews, who has for several weeks been the central figure of many and varied parties. Mrs. Gordon Mays Jr., of Millen, a recent bride, shared honors with Miss Mathews. Miss Catherine Pittman, a bride-elect, whose wedding will take place Monday, was an honor guest. Miss Mathews and Mrs. Mays were presented with blue pottery while Miss Pittman was the recipient of a distinctive gift. Kleenex, enclosed in a lovely blue taffeta case.

The living room and music room were most attractively decorated with flowers ranging from the lowly garden variety to choice hot-house cut flowers. The prevailing colors were pink and green. This color motif was emphasized by the refreshments by the use of cherries frozen in the ice cubes that were used in the limeade. The individual cakes were iced in pink and a variety of sandwiches were served from a hostess tray.

The guests enjoyed a contest which was in the form of a musical riddle. The winners in this contest were Miss Ar Remington and Miss Evelyn Anderson. Miss Anderson was the ultimate winner, and received a box of candy. Mrs. Lamb and Miss Anderson were assisted in entertaining by Miss Cecile Brannen, Mrs. Col. Anderson and Miss Aline Whiteside.

YOUNG FOLKS ENJOY SWIMMING PARTY

Charles McAllister was a genial host on Thursday evening to about fourteen couples in the hot tub. The main entertainment for the evening was a swim at the pool, after which they returned to their home on Savannah Avenue and enjoyed popcorn. The lawn was illuminated and formed a very pretty setting for the guests. The refreshments consisted of sandwiches, punch, and cookies.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Smith and children, Zack, Bobbie, and Betty, spent the week end at Tybee.

Mothers and fathers know that the happiness of their boys and girls is dependent, to a large degree, upon clothes and accessories and all the other things that come under the head of school needs. All these the parents cannot afford to underestimate the importance of placing his son or daughter in the most advantageous position possible.

AT THE CHURCHES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

C. M. Coaleon, Minister

What do you think of the state of the modern church? Have you been taken in too by the pessimistic prophecies of the doom of the church by its enemies—and sometimes by its friends? Is church growing in numbers, or decreasing? Are people ignoring the church and thinking of it only as an outgrown and needless institution? These queries and others like them must be faced. There's nothing to be gained by dismissing them and shutting our eyes to their implications.

You may be surprised to learn that the church in America gained in membership last year more rapidly than the country gained in population. Nearly a million people joined the church in America during the last twelve months. The sceptic may discount members all he likes but an army of almost a million people is by no means to be ignored.

If you have not thought about it lately you may also be astonished to know the influence the church is wielding in the realm of social ideals today. There is gradually growing up a formidable power in opposition to social injustice in the nations and governments of the world, and this power is being built by the idealism and practical leadership of the leaders of a militant modern church. There is not simply a place where people meet and shout and otherwise express meaningless emotion, but a place where truth is disseminated and magnificent resolves are born which bode ill for the plans of those who are selfishly trying to make our world selfish and deadly. "Upon this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

Further, the modern church is finding its tongue and displaying new resources of courage as its leaders are not only speaking to convictions but are carrying them into effect. But more of this Sunday morning at the First Baptist Church. Suffice it to say here that no one need have any apology for standing by the modern church. The modern church still yields the power of a mighty army, marching as to war.

Then on Sunday evening let's go with Jesus back to his home town and see what happens there.

METHODIST CHURCH

11:30 a. m. Morning worship and preaching by the pastor, Themas. The interest Jesus manifested in the laboring people of His day was recapitulated, for Mark in his gospel tells us that the common people heard him gladly. His foster father was a carpenter and doubtless He labored at the bench. Himself, Jesus related many fascinating stories about people who worked. He told about the farmer who sowed seeds in his field, the laborers who were hired in the market place, the shepherd who kept his sheep, the merchant who bought the pearls, the builder who was unable to finish his house. His interest in and concern for those who toiled today is no less than in that day.

It is fitting that on the Sabbath preceding Labor Day we, in the churches should seek to do honor to men who toil. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be a part of this service.

8 p. m. Evening worship and preaching again by the pastor, Themas Calvary and Giving.

We belong to a giving universe. God was the first and best giver. It was the giving of His own Son which made a Calvary. He gave because He loved. That should be the motive which prompts us to be givers. Yes, we should give of our material substance. But don't you pity the person who has nothing bigger and better than that to give?

The annals of history are luminous with stories of the great men who made themselves immortal by giving. Abraham who gave his son as an offering to God. Mary bringing her box of precious ointment to anoint the body of Jesus. The good Samaritan giving his time and service to help a wounded man. Melvin Cox dying on the mission field crying, "If I had a thousand lives Africa could have them all."

10:15 a. m. The Church School meets. Come and bring your children to a modernly equipped school for worship and study. Please note that all evening services have been moved to eight o'clock.

From the Land of Cherry Blossoms Downie Bros. Circus Brings the Famous Eno Troupe

Direct from the Orient, the Great Eno Japanese Troupe will present their renowned Rialty Act.

From City Hall comes the information that Fred Kilgore, contracting agent of the Sparks managed Downie Brothers Circus, is in our city and has been granted a license to exhibit afternoon and night, Thursday, Sept. 23. This should be good news to the circus lovers in this community, for no better known circus travels United States and Canada than the one offered by Charles Sparks. Always a good show, always a clean show, always just a little better than the other one, is Charlie Sparks motto, and this standard he has held up for over 47 years.

Arrangements have already started to ask a half holiday for the school children in the county. Before another week has passed gay colored posters and window lithographs will remind you of the coming of one season offering — "Bigger, Better of the world's greatest amusement and Grandeur than ever."

High School Blue Devils Shaping Up For '37 Season

The Statesboro Blue Devils reported to Coach B. A. (Snag) Johnson for the first practice of the season Monday afternoon. The boys were put through a light workout, but a workout that was enough to make them sore Tuesday morning.

There were twenty-five boys that donned the familiar cleated shoes and shorts and stomped down to the football field Monday afternoon. Coach Johnson kept the boys busy for about two hours in which light exercises took up most of the time. After the two-hour workout, the boys were put through the eighth and ninth grades that are out of Coach Johnson says that he hopes every one of them will stay out for, he believes that if he can keep them out he can build his future teams with them.

Coach Johnson, science teacher, out on the field and Mr. Montgomery is proving wonderful help to Coach Johnson.
